Gen Oil Company Has Well.
The test of the Gen Oil company in section 4-15-14, West 1/2, Sec. 4, T. 14 N., R. 15 E., S. 14, was 1,428 feet, and at ten feet in the oil and the well showing good, it was shut down for further work.

The well has ten million feet of gas in an upper sand and being in strictly excellent territory, has caused a lot of interest. It will be drilled in on Wednesday.

Additional Red Fork News.
In the Red Fork district, the well of Arnold, Taylor and associates, was not drilled in as expected, but will probably be completed today. The well was a big gusher in an upper sand and was declined following the test of the well. The well flowing better than 200 barrels natural at less than one foot in the pay. Four rigs were sent out yesterday afternoon and the district will be drilled to a finish.

The report that others than those interested in the company were in the district in having the well completed is untrue.

Short Wells at Tulsa.
In the Tulsa field, the well of M. L. Lockwood, in section 19-16-16, had a lot of gas at 100 feet and is being drilled to the oil sand. It is south of the river and the most important part of the field.

Four wells were shot in the Tulsa field, the Brown and Brown in section 2-12-16 making 250 barrels, and the two wells of Anderson & Gray making 25 barrels the first twenty four hours. The Brown and Brown was in section 4 in section 4-16-16 and has a 20 barrel well.

Richard Company Getting Another.
In the Broken Arrow district, the second well of the Richard and company, which is the second and showing better than No. 1, which is a 100-barrel natural producer. It is south of the first well in section 2-13-14. The American Oil & Gas Co. got a fishing job while developing its test north of the Richard No. 1 well. It had a 50-barrel showing at the top of the sand.

The Perry Deep Drilled.
The deep test being drilled about nine miles south of Perry was reported to be down 2,100 feet today. It is almost three times the company was getting some oil in this test if any exists in the neighborhood.

Old Well Showing Good.
It is reported that an old well at the Prairie Oil & Gas Co., on the Broken Arrow district, in the northeast quarter of section 15-13-12, which was abandoned, was showing from oil at 1,500 feet and that it possibly will make a good well. It was an old gusher at 1,500 feet. The well is reported to have made one flow.

Starting New Test.
McDonnell & Wood are starting a well in the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 21-13-16.

The Haskell District.
The Haskell test in section 8-15-14 in the southeast quarter of the section, is drilling at 1,120 feet and a sand is looked for at about 1,500 feet. Kerkhofs is starting a well in the northeast quarter of section 8-15-14, close to an old well drilled some years ago, which had a good showing in the 1,500-foot sand. It was on the Julia Pelay farm.

Leaving Tulsa for Muskogee.
By auto, one never gets out of sight, of rigs starting at Broken Arrow, Coale, Haskell and Yanda and coming of Muskogee, they are plainly visible all the way.

Wells in Nowata District.
Ross & Johnson's first test on the Gray Wolf in section 25-25-12, is a 400 feet. The Richardson & Co. No. 3, in section 16-25-12, is a 200-barrel producer.

Ross & Johnson's No. 2, in section 16-25-12, is a 200-barrel well. The Oklahoma Oil company's No. 3, in section 22-25-12, is a 200-barrel well. The Oklahoma Oil company's No. 4, in section 22-25-12, is a 200-barrel well.

A TEXAS WONDER.
The Texas wonder, which is a 100-barrel natural producer, was drilled in the Tulsa field, in section 15-13-12, and is a 100-barrel natural producer. It is a 100-barrel natural producer.

The Riverside oil company completed a well in section 4-12-15, which has a little showing, but not enough to make a paying proposition and it was plugged.

Some Bartlesville Completions.
Alexander, Calhoun & Mitchell have a 25-barrel well, No. 2, in the W. E. Halsey tract in section 24-23-14. The southeast oil fields company has a 15-barrel well, No. 3, in the W. E. Halsey tract in section 24-23-14. James Brown No. 1, James McCarty in section 11-25-12 is a 100,000 foot well and the Bartlesville Petroleum company's No. 1, Amos Hixler in section 11-25-12 is a 20-barrel well. The Victor oil company, receiver, No. 1, Joseph Johnson in section 1-25-13 is only a 2-barrel producer.

WITH THE LIVE ONES.

Harry Hixler, who is running two strings of tools in the Bartlesville field, is in Tulsa.

J. J. Kelly of New York City, president of the Manhattan Oil company, returned to Tulsa yesterday from a trip to Kansas City.

J. W. Cappellet, of the firm of J. P. Cappellet Sons, authorities on oil and gas stocks returned from Pittsburgh yesterday and expects to stay out in this country some little time with his brother, J. P. Jr., who has an office here. Accompanying Mr. Cappellet was John R. Welch of Philadelphia who is looking over the field.

S. H. M. Lacey, the American head of the Russian Petroleum company, arrived in Tulsa from New York yesterday.

S. P. and J. V. Phil, of Butler, Pa., returned in Tulsa yesterday. They are interested in the oil game and are the owners of H. N. Preston, a Tulsa manager of the Oklahoma State and kindred oil companies of the Union Petroleum company of Paris.

Now Well in Bartlesville Field.
The test of the Bartlesville field, in section 8-12-12, at one foot in the well filled up 200 feet and drilling has been discontinued for awhile. It is the west of the Bartlesville oil company's first well which is in the southwest corner of the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of the section.

The crystal oil company's well in section 8-12-12 is making 120 barrels and the company is trying to lubricate its big gusher on the same issue to drill it deeper.

The Red River oil company's well in the same section, 8-12-12, is making 250 barrels. It having stopped producing for a while when the crystal well was drilled in.

The Bartlesville oil company's two wells in section 8-12-12 are making 125 and 150 barrels respectively, although the second well has not been drilled any great distance in the sand.

The joint well of the Bartlesville oil company, the Bartlesville oil company, the Bartlesville oil company and the Bartlesville oil company is a 15-barrel well in the sand from 1,125 to 1,135 feet. The well for a time was considered a failure.

When drilling is being done in the field with the crystal extension of the field in several directions it looks as though a genuine pool had been uncovered in that part of the field. The Bartlesville Petroleum company had the first tank completed and the field lines had started taking on from the wells.

Red Fork Well a Winner.
The well of Arnold, Taylor and associates in section 29-12-12 southwest of Red Fork was completed Sunday in the tank and made 110 barrels over night, making a total production for the 24 hours over 200 barrels natural. It is merely in the top of the sand and will be drilled in today.

Being in the best city sand from which 600 and 700 barrel wells were developed in that field, makes the new well at Red Fork of extreme importance in that territory as over other wells in the district were stopped in the Tulsa sand, which is 65 feet higher than the Lost City.

Many new wells are being started in the vicinity and many of the old wells will probably be deepened and with the exception of the Tulsa field, will probably cause more interest than any other pool in the state on account of being large or strange.

Wells at Bartlesville Switch.

In the old Bartlesville switch district the second well of the Bartlesville oil company, in section 24-23-14, is a 15-barrel well. The Bartlesville oil company's No. 1, in section 24-23-14, is a 15-barrel well.

Three Wells at Cushing.

The Bartlesville oil company and Haskell completed a 150-barrel well natural in the Layton sand, No. 3, on the west half in section 24-23-12. The Gypsy oil company's No. 1, in section 24-23-12, is a 15-barrel well. The Bartlesville oil company's No. 2, in section 24-23-12, is a 15-barrel well.

The Bartlesville oil company's No. 3, in section 24-23-12, is a 15-barrel well. The Bartlesville oil company's No. 4, in section 24-23-12, is a 15-barrel well.

May Be Mistrial in Case which had told her she wanted her to keep him from appearing in court. "No sir."

"Didn't you tell Mrs. Reuter that Baker and Mackenzie might be in the state and that Mrs. Reuter was justified in killing her husband, and you were going to defend her?"

"No sir."

"Didn't you hear Bud Bellow's testimony in the Baker-Mackenzie trial?"

"No sir."

"You never told Mrs. Reuter, or ever talked the matter over with your fellow counsel in the case?"

"I think I talked to Mr. Charles about it."

"This is the first time you ever testified to this important fact, that would aid in exonerating Mrs. Reuter?"

"Yes sir."

Mr. Malloy took the stand after Mr. Campbell left and endeavored to impeach the testimony of Campbell by offering to testify that he saw Campbell and Bellow both in the court room during the examination of Bud Bellow. Judge Allen temporarily sustained the objection raised by defense and Mr. Malloy left the stand somewhat angered.

Attorney Charles took the stand and read from the testimony of Mrs. A. M. McKee given at the preliminary hearing, bringing out the statement made by the witness that Mrs. Reuter and Guy Mackenzie only met in her house one time, the time when she told them it was inadvisable for them to meet there.

The testimony of Warden R. B. Dick of the state penitentiary was next read to explain why Mrs. Reuter went under the name of Mary Gordon, a female detective on her trip to the prison. The testimony contained the statement made by the defendant to warden, that she:

"I didn't want to sail under false colors."

"I am Mrs. Reuter, and came to see Guy Mackenzie and Joe Baker and I adopted the assumed name to avoid newspaper publicity." The warden says she told him.

At this juncture Prosecutor Malloy renewed his contention to the competency of the testimony of Deputy Warden E. M. Fry, that he did not hear Mrs. Reuter plead with the two convicted men to tell what they knew that would exonerate her. Judge Allen decided for the state and allowed the belated testimony to go to the jury.

Here the defense rested.

The state then placed Ben Ramsdale on the stand in rebuttal and he told of being in the Reuter home with Ben Burgess at the time testified to by Burgess this morning. The defense did not cross examine.

Mrs. Fred Pink was used in rebuttal by the state, by way of impeaching Mrs. Reuter's statement to the effect that Dora Bellow was never in her home. The witness stated that in a conversation Mrs. Reuter had told her of the circumstance of Mrs. Bellow being in her home and that Dora had stated to Mrs. Reuter that the "boys" had told nothing.

Bud Bellow was called in rebuttal by the state for the purpose of impeaching Biddison and Campbell. The defense objected and it was during a heated argument by counsel on this matter that Mrs. Reuter collapsed.

Morning Session.
The defense sprung two of their strongest points this morning when they introduced testimony intended to impeach the testimony of Bud Bellow and Ben Burgess.

Attorney A. J. Biddison, of counsel for the defense, took the stand and was examined by Attorney Ben Thompson. In the examination it was brought out that Biddison conferred with Bud Bellow in the county jail just prior to his confession and inquired of him regarding Mrs. Reuter's knowledge of the murder plot.

Mr. Biddison testified that Bellow assured him that Mrs. Reuter knew nothing of the plot to kill her husband and played no part in the atrocious crime and that she would not be implicated in his confession.

On cross-examination, Prosecutor Malloy made a searching inquiry into the reasons why Biddison, as counsel for Mrs. Reuter, did not testify to this important fact in the first trial last September. Biddison maintained that he didn't know about Bellow's testimony on that point.

"Didn't you hear Bud Bellow testify at the Baker-Mackenzie trial?" asked the prosecuting attorney.

A. "I did not."

Q. "Didn't you read about it in the newspapers?"

A. "No, sir."

Q. "Did you ever hear of it from any source?"

A. "No, sir; I did not."

Q. "You didn't testify about your conversation with Bellow in Mrs. Reuter's first trial, did you?"

A. "No, sir."

Q. "This is the first time you ever told it on the witness stand?"

A. "Yes, sir."

To impeach the testimony of Ben Burgess, who testified to having seen Mackenzie and Mrs. Reuter in bed together in the Reuter home, the defense introduced Mrs. M. J. Barton, for 27 years a resident of Tulsa and owner of considerable Tulsa property.

"Did you ever talk to Ben Burgess about Mrs. Reuter?" asked counsel for the defense.

A. "Yes, sir."

Q. "Where?"

A. "I was talking with Mrs. Burgess one day in her home when Mr. Burgess came home."

Q. "What did you say to Ben?"

A. "I asked him if matter discussed between Mrs. Burgess and myself before his arrival, concerning Mrs. Reuter, were true."

Q. "What did Ben say?"

A. "He told me he knew nothing inside the Reuter home."

Prosecutor Malloy tried to get before the jury, the matters discussed between Mrs. Burgess and myself before his arrival, concerning Mrs. Reuter, were true."

"We insist that the prosecuting attorney sit down," demanded counsel for defense. "He'll make the witness nervous."

"Oh, I think Mr. Malloy will treat me like a mother," said Mrs. Barton. "I am mighty proud of him."

Mr. Malloy took his seat and continued the cross examination.

The defense placed Ben Burgess on the stand for further cross-examination this morning, and he denied the conversation related by Mrs. Barton. Burgess told of a visit to the Reuter home with Charles Reuter and Ben
